Come see your OHV dollars at work!

Often the public asks, “Where does all the money from OHV registration fees go? How does it benefit me?”

We all know that New Mexico has many OHV trails and areas to ride, but what the state doesn't have is an OHV Recreation Area like Brown Springs.

In recent years, the Department and the Bureau of Land Management have worked with the City of Farmington and San Juan County to create a one-of-a-kind OHV recreation area — not only an area just to ride, but an area where OHV enthusiasts can also enjoy open camping with facilities, have OHV information available, participate in OHV safety trainings, all while enjoying ample space for OHV staging, parking, riding and more.

Please consider our invitation and come see OHV dollars at work!
